Volume 21 Issue 1

January-March, 2017

A New Arrival!

All you horsemanship campers will enjoy meeting the newest addition to the horsemanship program. Needing horses is a good thing because it means more kids are coming to camp, but it also means some of our faithful old ones are needing some breaks to keep up with all the activity. She's a twelve-year-old sorrel named Mandy from Texas.

A majority of this year's crop of babies will be born in July and August. But just so you know, the first one due to foal will be Pockets around May 20.

Elizabeth will be back for the first camp and again in September for the adult camps. She'll be heading to Canada soon to start horse programs for school kids. Bethany will also be back for the second and third camps. In addition, we'll have a couple of new counselors that we'll be welcoming throughout the summer. We hear from Suzel (our Swiss intern) from time to time. She sent us a postcard from Australia around Christmas and an email in January. And on that note, just who do you think will be our next cabin clean-up inspector?? Rumor has it that Travis and Tucker are applying for the job. . . .

Cowboy Poetry Gathering to be held at the Southeastern Utah Jr. Livestock Show, July 6, at the Ferron Fairgrounds at 7 p.m.

We don't want anyone to miss this change in date, time, and location. There will not be a meal served, and there will be no charge for the event. The community is welcome.

This is an opportunity to advertise for camps with the booth we take to expos and reach at least 300 people at once. Because each year seems to get harder to schedule with so many conflicts with community events, we asked permission from the stock show committee to try this. If you would like to join the 777 Ranch in sponsoring this event, please give Katie a call at 435-749-9704. The committee asked that it be a free event, so donations from individuals and/or organizations will be very much appreciated.

Camp Schedule

Youth Horsemanship Camps—

If you've been checking the website and/or facebook, you may have read that our first horsemanship camp is full and that the second and third ones are almost full. Our speakers are all great and love to watch you kids ride and interact with you. We're looking forward to a good summer with the possibility of a graduate or two!

All Daughters' Getaway—

You won't want to miss a fun time with other ladies and girls. Julie always comes up with a fun big game, and the food is always exceptional! Our speaker this year is Mrs. Jan Van Hee, who has spoken at many women's conferences and retreats. She especially enjoys working with young women and has written two devotional books just for them. You'll enjoy a variety of activities and time away to relax and fellowship! See our website for a registration form and the details.
